Co. BIG Grows $4.5 Millions In 6-Year Program

Waco-Rosebud Unlinked

Caldwell Tied In

Southern Pacific Railroad dispatched its last train from Waco to Rosebud and Cameron Friday and scheduled a new service Monday via Caldwell.

Discontinuance of the line from Waco to Rosebud followed the Interstate Commerce Commission's denial of a petition by a Waco manufacturer to keep the tracks.

And it clears the way for Southern Pacific to remove their tracks in Waco and sell the property to the state for Interstate 35 right-of-way.

The new service will bring a train to Cameron from Caldwell at 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday using the Santa Fe tracks. They will also continue service for Rosebud on this line, when needed.

E. A. Nachlinger, Cameron freight agent for Southern Pacific, said the new schedule would speed inbound freight from the south and west by about 24 hours. He said north and east inbound freight would be about the same as it had been from Waco.

Nachlinger said Caldwell was on the main Southern Pacific line from St. Louis to Los Angeles.

In Cameron's early history the Southern Pacific line was the city's main link with Waco and both passenger and freight trains ran daily. The passenger service was discontinued in 1949.

Baskin Ins. Given 3-Yr. Contract For School Insurance

The Cameron School Board has appointed Gordon Baskin Insurance Co., Cameron, as servicing agent for all the school's insurance for the next three-year period.

The motion appointing the Baskin Agency as insurance representative also stipulated that the servicing agency be alternated among local agents every three years.

Baskin was also authorized to have his company engineers study the school's insurance program and make recommendations on the amounts and types of insurance needed by the district.

The Board also voted $10-a-month raises to Miss Faye Yates, secretary to the superintendent, and Mrs. Irene Chamberlain, clerk in the tax office.

Board President C. R. Law appointed Charles McDermott, Barbee Barrett and Calvin Cobb to check on maintenance, insurance and use of former shcool buildings at Ben Arnold, Elm Ridge, Yarrellton and Walkers Creek. The buildings, now part of the Cameron Independent School District, are available for community use if they are adequately insured and maintained by the community.

Citizens, First Natl. Named Depositories For County Funds

Citizens National Bank and the First National Bank of Cameron were awarded contracts as county depositories at the regular meeting of Milam County Commissioners last week.

Two-thirds of the county's funds will be deposited in Citizens National Bank and one-third in First National Bank.

Commissioners also accepted the second low bid on a motor grader for Precinct 1. The Darr grader bid was $15,359. Browning-Ferris Machinery Co. of Houston submitted the low bid, $14,042, but County Judge O. B. Harden said the Court felt the Darr machine would better

AG ECONOMY NEARS RECORD $15 MILLIONS

The Blackland Income Growth Program, which promotes better farming practices and modern technology, continues to help increase crop yields and agricultural income in Milam County. A 1966 agricultural income evaluation shows a gross income of $14,997,368. In 1961, when the B.I.G. program was initiated, the county income was $10,419,183. This represents an increase of $4,578,185 in six years.

County Agent J. D. Moore said increases in livestock income and government payments accounted for some of the growth. However, crop income for 1966 was actually below 1966 figures because of heavy spring rains which caused replanting in some crops and insect infestation.

Crop income in 1966 was $5,107,536, down $1,495,174 from 1965, but offset by a $2,046,581 gain in livestock income and $1,328,697 in government payments.

Moore said Milam County would have recorded a much greater increase under the B.I.G. program except for the spring floods.

Although the Blackland Income Growth Program has succeeded in increasing yields and income, the goals have not been reached and more emphasis will be placed on B.I.G. this year. A special B.I.G. program is being planned on a local county level. County B.I.G. Booster Committees are being organized to plan and carry out B.I.G. activities, in an effort to reach goals of 500 pounds lint cotton per acre, 4500 pounds grain sorghum per acre, and produce a 90 percent calf crop with a weaning weight of 500 pounds.

In a 36 county area, agricultural income for 1966 was $611 million. Livestock produced $330 million, crops $233 million and government payments $48 million. In 1961 the agricultural income for this same area was $420 million.

Library Receives $374 From Estate; Book Buyers Work

The Cameron Public Library has received $374.29 for the building fund from the estate of Miss Malchen Rischar, of Cameron.

The library was one of three beneficiaries cited in Miss Rischar's will, the others being Father Flanagan's Boys Town and St. Edward Rischar Memorial Hospital. A bronze plaque will be placed in the library in memorial to the Rischar family.

Funds were added to the $4,000 plus residual of the 1966 building fund, which are being used for new book purchases.

The book committee of Cameron Public Library is completing a $3,000 purchase of books under a grant from the Texas State Library. Total should be about 1000 books, pre-catalogued. Another 1200 or more books will be purchased this year to bring new book purchases during 1967 to about 2500, library officials estimated.

The Cameron Public Library book committee includes: Mrs. W. O. Triggs, Mrs. Frank Luecke, Mrs. Don G. Humble and Mrs. Frank Perrin, chairman.

YOUNG FARMERS MEET

Young Farmers will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 28, in the Yoe Ag Building. A representative of Texas Power and Light will present a program on farm electrification. Also on the program will be a report and discussion on the proposed Grazing Association.

The Herald has received an inquiry from Phil McCall, of Cameron, asking about the total loan of $753,552 for 50 units, 36 for the elderly.

We called the Cameron Housing Authority Wednesday morning to ask how that figure was reached, but at the time no one was in the office to answer the phone.

McCall divided 50 into the announced total and figured the cost per unit would be something over $15,000.

Some costs in such a project would be engineering and architect's fees, usually a percentage of 7 percent or more, land acquisition costs, legal fees, some allowance for moving people affected by the projects, and other less obvious costs prior to a letting of a construction bid.

We recall that 3½ blocks are estimated in the project north of Newton Hospital and half that much land east of the present North Cameron project. Preparation of the land, and streets and sidewalk construction would be part of the cost, if other similar projects are an example.

It would follow, then, that the actual unit figure of $15,000 plus would be reduced by such things as streets and moving people and the Cameron Housing Authority office. It would seem difficult to compare such a unit cost with the unit cost of building one house at a time. This is 107's supposition, not the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

107-107-107-

Tragedy struck twice in our neighborhood in the same household this week. Wylie P. Magnum and Mrs. Frank R. Kittredge, brother and sister of Mrs. George Graves, of 610 E. Seventh St. died.

Mr. Magnum of Austin died Sunday on the way to Temple; Mrs. Kittredge, of Tulsa, died suddenly the morning after his funeral in in the home of her sister, Mrs. Graves.

We don't know why, but tragedies come in multiples: train wrecks, air crashes, sudden death. No one living can divine the chance or the order of such things. That is for the Divine to keep because knowing, if it can be known, would not help.

Rockdale, Cameron, County . . . .

Group Reviews Rural Fires

Officials of Milam County, Rockdale and Cameron discussed rural fire calls for two hours Tuesday at Milam Courthouse, the County announcing plans for a later meeting with municipal towns and rural representatives.

Judge O. B. Harden chaired proceedings.

Commissioner Lavert McKinney suggested the possibility of the County budgeting some amount for rural fire support beyond the $25 per property fire currently being paid, but not until the next County budget year.

The City asked for $1 a mile and $20 per hour for use of Cameron fire fighting equipment for any kind of rural firecall. The County Commissioners voted to reject the charge, to begin March 1.

Mayor Bassel Wilson early in the meeting said the City of Cameron seeks only payment for service to county fires that is being paid for by city taxpayers.

The sum of numerous comments on the problem from County, Rockdale and Cameron officials included:

—That Rockdale has no rural fire service beyond 4 miles out and desires no further obligation with a rural fire contract.

—That Cameron will continue to serve rural fire calls if the County will pay the cost on some kind of reasonable cost basis as long as Cameron firemen agree to make calls.

—That Milam County seeks a county-wide view of the problem, the heaviest in years during January, and wants to consider all municipalities and rural areas too.

—That the present arrangement of $25 per rural property fire cost was unrealistic, both in cost and in the fact that grass to a cattleman can be as valuable as a building.

Sheriff Carl Black, also chief of Cameron Volunteer firemen, said Cameron firemen wanted to continue to make the calls and that some agreement should be reached.

Judge Harden said the County "has no money" for fire costs beyond what is being done, pointing out the prospect of a purchase of a $13,000 elevator for the Courthouse.

The County had previously made out checks for $500 each to Rockdale, Cameron and Thorndale for rural fire service.

Cameron city officials said they would accept the $500 only on condition that it be applied to any payment program the County and City could agree to later. Mayor Wilson quoted Rockdale officials who said they would accept the check for Rockdale, but for "services rendered."

Judge Harden also noted the possibility of a fire district in the Cameron area, but not including Cameron, whereby a maximum 3 cents per $100 valuation tax was provided for equipping a fire district.

Rockdale Fire Chief John Weed noted that Rockdale considers the problem of rural fires one requiring additional education. "Outside of four miles of Rockdale, we won't respond," he said.

He urged that rural residents receive instruction on fire control. Judge Harden said the County had contacted the County Agent's office for rural fire education material.

Cameron has manpower but equipment limitations now, while Rockdale has manpower limitations and adequate equipment for city use. Rockdale City Manager N. E. Alford said any change would require budget changes and additional obligations and additional money.

Cameron Councilman Robert W. Wells said "no formal action" can be made at this meeting. "If the County does see fit to accept City (of Cameron) changes, a written contract is in order, more than a gentleman's agreement."

County Atty. John Henderson Jr. opined he felt the 1956 City-County agreement was valid during a discussion of the liability of city trucks going to rural fires.

Councilman Turner, of Cameron, read a brief statement which concluded that he could not see why the County could not pay for the fire service rendered by the City.

McKinney said it "has to be worked out county wide."

Henderson forwarded a proposal that a steering committee be formed of every municipality and of rural people to meet with the County Commissioners.

Judge Harden said that the County would not accept the $1 a mile and $20 an hour from the City of Cameron. At that time, one Cameron official said the $500 would not be accepted, which later was modified.

Mayor Wilson said a "citizen of Cameron could file an injunction to stop service to rural areas", stating this puts "the City in the driver's seat."

The meeting adjourned after two hours of discussion with men shaking hands throughout the County Commissioners Meeting Room, seat of the conference.

Representing the City of Cameron were: Mayor Wilson, City

Rubinoff Concert 8:15 Friday P. M.

Rubinoff's program 8:15 p.m. Friday at Yoe High School Auditorium will include 12 numbers of both popular and classic nature.

The classic numbers are familiar to any audiences which enjoy good music, Cameron Lions Club spokesmen, of the sponsoring civic club, said this week.

The program of the noted violinist's repertoire includes: Rubinoff's own "Dance of the Peasant", Debussy's "Clair de Lune", Opus 53 of "Polonaise", Addinsell's "Warsaw Concerto" and Dinicu-Heifetz's "Hora Staccato".

Popular numbers and specialties will include "Fly Me to the Moon", "Jalousie", a "TV Special", "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life", 'When Day Is Done", 'Fiddlin' the Fiddle", and "Square Dancin' Fiddle."

Tickets are available from Cameron Lions Club members or at E. O. Schiller Pharmacy and New Cameron Pharmacy.

During a typical concert day, Rubinoff starts off with a meeting of his sponsors, and often for a tour of the city's schools where he gives free concerts. Interviews follow and a school assembly before dinner, then full dress and the evening concert.

He usually spends weekends in cross-country train and plane flights, and, of course, a considerable amount of time for practice. His concert numbers require effortless fingering on his Stradivarius. And it requires difficult exercises to polish individual notes and passages.

Rubinoff has been playing violin for 50 years. He has become a collector of antique glass.

Rural Calls While Negotiating

City Seeks Fire Contract

Mayor Bassel Wilson and the Cameron City Council Tuesday night, following a meeting with county officials, advised firemen the City would continue to make rural fire calls, while further discussions with the County are held.

The Council seeks a contract with the County for payment of some kind for both rural property and grass fires.

Mayor Wilson advised firemen the 1941 Ford would be the only firetruck used. A 1952 GMC truck would remain in Cameron city use, the only one available while the 1960 truck, wrecked last fall, is overhauled.

Councilman Robert Wells recommended that fire calls not be made more than halfway between Cameron and Rockdale, but general calls outside the city will continue.

Wells made his suggestion after city officials learned that Rockdale Fire Dept. makes no calls beyond four miles outside Rockdale city limits, and then only after an inspection of the fire.

Firetruck driver Warren McCall told the Council that Cameron last week had made a rural run after Rockdale had been called and had not responded.

Mayor Wilson told Councilmen and some firemen present at the early evening meeting Tuesday that Cameron would continue calls to rural fires unless some new contractual arrangement, or lack of it, with the County for payment alters plans. The City earlier had advised the County an automatic billing after March 1, 1967.

He reiterated that city officials had asked the County for support, on a $1 a mile and $20 an hour basis, if the City was to continue to serve County fire needs at City expense, and "that's all we are asking for."

He read newspaper articles from an Austin daily which reported that Smithville would stop making rural fire runs after a current $750 contract was out. And the city of Bastrop stopped going to rural fires, the articles showed.

City records Wednesday revealed that the City of Cameron had received an average of $25 per month during the past 50 months from the County, this $1250 total for four years for property fires outside the city limits.

And the City Budget includes $10,140, including $4,000 in salaries, for the Cameron Volunteer Fire Dept. Volunteer firemen have agreed to continue to make the calls.

Councilman Wells noted that the County and City could agree that a contract must be drawn beyond the 1956 agreement.

Wells said the Council would want to pursue the subject further with the County. County officials want to reach an agreement with all incorporated towns and rural precincts.

In other action, the Council authorized purchase of a new Burroughs double-printer accounting machine for $6,246.80. The 10-year-old machine it replaced was to be moved into the Water Department office.

The Council also called for tax form bids and discussed complaints about residents within 100 feet of sewerline service not connecting. Alvin Hefft, City Water Dept. superintendent, was contacting residents in the West Cameron area at mid-week. Neighborhood complaints to Mayor Wilson brought the action. Letters have already advised residents on new sewer servicelines that they must connect.

City Atty. Charles Smith, Jr. said that except in "extreme hardship cases," charges may be filed.

J. B. Earle, public works superintendent, began a survey of the needs of clearing a drainage problem along the Southern Pacific tracks in West Cameron where overflow has damaged some homes.

Earle reported that work has been completed on the West Cameron Cemetery and Ledbetter Park streets. His department has begun work on cemetery streets, completed work on Sixth St. and Adams, and plans to build a cemetery trailer for about $30.

Hefft noted two additional water connections at E. 15th and North Burns.

We eat more oranges than any other fruit, and today they're our best fruit buy. Florida has the biggest crop in its history, and prices are lower than ever.

Sweet Valencia oranges, in the market now, are plump, juicy and practically seedless, which makes them ideal for this Orange Florida dessert. A variation of Baked Alaska, the recipe calls for frosting instead of the usual meringue. Halved oranges are topped with ice cream, covered with orange-flavored frosting, and browned quickly in a hot oven.

Orange Florida

3 Florida Valencia oranges
1 package (6½ ounces) white seven-minute frosting mix
Florida orange juice
1 tablespoon grated Florida orange rind
½ pint vanilla ice cream

Cut oranges in half. Cut around each section, loosening fruit from membrane. Chill. When ready to serve, preheat oven to 500 F. Prepare seven-minute frosting mix according to package directions, substituting orange juice for liquid called for. Add grated orange rind. Remove orange halves from refrigerator and place a spoonful of ice cream in the center of each half. Cover with frosting. Place in preheated oven until lightly browned, about 1 minute.

YIELD: 6 servings.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Which House Is Your Castle?

Three centuries ago, an English judge proclaimed that "a man's house is his castle."

Almost two centuries ago, the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution forbade any "unreasonable search" of a private dwelling.

And today, the safety of a person's house from governmental intrusion still ranks as one of the most distinctive hallmarks of a free land.

But which "house" is the law talking about?

Obviously it means a house that you own and live in. And it includes a house or apartment that you occupy as a tenant.

Summer cottage? House trailer? Hotel room? All these too, since they are places of dwelling, ordinarily share the constitutional guarantee of privacy.

The protection may also reach beyond the house itself. Courts have held it to include a householder's adjacent garage and a farmer's nearby barn. In both cases, the courts felt that the constitutional shelter should cover all areas reasonably within the ambit of family life.

Does this mean that the home is a privileged sanctuary for crime? Not at all. A house may indeed be searched under proper circumstances—for example, if the police first obtain a warrant, or are in the process of making a lawful arrest.

For then the search is "reasonable," not forbidden by the constitutional ban. As a United States Supreme Court justice said in upholding rightful searches:

"The framers of the Constitution only intended to restrain the abuse, not abolish the power."

But without such justifying circumstances, a house stands secure against the inroads of officialdom. An English statesman, Sir William Pitt, gave the doctrine its classical expression:

"The poorest man may in his cottage bid defiance to all the force of the Crown. It may be frail; its roof may shake; the wind may blow through it; storms may enter, the rain may enter—but the King of England cannot enter; all his forces dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement!"

Texas Baptists Show Increase In Gifts, Church Membership

Increases in giving and church membership marked the Texas Baptist statistical report for 1966 according to figures released by Cecil Goff, director of statistical services for the BGCT.

Total receipts for all purposes through the churches were $112,232,333, a gain of $3.6 million for the year. Of the gifts, a record $17,110,818 was given through the Dallas office for mission causes. The total was more than $980,000 above the 1965 total.

The number of baptisms was down 612 from 1965, but observers saw indications of the reversal of a downward trend. The churches reported 53,344 baptisms in 1966 compared with 53,956 the previous year when almost 2700 fewer baptisms were reported than in 1964.

"The trend all across the Southern Baptist Convention is down this year," stated T. A. Patterson, BGCT executive secretary. "We are grateful that the vigorous program being carried on by Texas Baptist churches is helping them to keep pace with the dynamic society around them."

Veteran Benefits Are Tax-Free

Most veteran benefits are tax-free and need not be reported on income tax returns, Jack Coker, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco, reminded former servicemen and women.

However, interest earned on GI life insurance dividends left on deposit with the VA is not classed as a benefit but as earned income and must be reported on tax returns. Proceeds of GI policies and the dividends are non-taxable and need not be reported.

Other VA benefits not taxable include education and training allowances, subsistence allowances for disabled veterans in vocational rehabilitation training, compensation and pension payments, grants for "wheelchair" homes, automobiles and all benefits to families of deceased veterans.

Heritage Trail Auto Tour Benefits Told

The new East Texas Heritage Trail, a self-guided auto tour of the 72-county region including Milam County, can mean an increase of close to $500 million in new tourist money, a Boston travel expert said Thursday while addressing the Fourth Annual East Texas Chamber of Commerce conference in Palestine.

George F. Grandi, first president of the successful New England Heritage Trail, stressed that everyone in the East Texas region would benefit by the increase in tourism and quoted an old New England proverb, "The rising tide lifts all the boats."

Mr. Grandi said that his prediction of the ultimate benefit to East Texas of the Heritage Trail was based on the increases in tourism which resulted in New England when it set up its own Heritage Trail.

The East Texas Heritage Trail is designed to attract visitors to that part of Texas and then show them the best things the region has to offer them in a planned way, rather than have them come on a "hit-or-miss" basis, East Texas Chamber of Commerce Tourist Manager, Howard W. Rosser, explained.

S. Godfrey, Chief of Community Relations of the Texas Tourist Development Agency, told the 200 persons gathered for the meeting that the greatest economic benefit to East Texas in the future will be in catering to the new leisure time now at the disposal of millions of well-to-do Americans. He said that when the final details and routing of the East Texas Heritage Trail are announced in early April, his agency will tell the world about it through its connections with national news media.

Engineer Says Planning Vital In City Progress

The city without the services of a professional engineer may be literally cheating itself out of dollars and cents and is certainly lacking a vital implement for efficient orderly progress, according to Holland Winder, City engineer of Bryan.

He cited engineers' services during Engineers Week, Feb. 19-25.

City Engineering, a phase of the city government, in the Department of Public Works is responsible for the ease and convenience with which the public operates in the course of daily routine. This department, as is the Department of Public Works, is usually headed by a registered professional Engineer. Today more than ever before in the history of our nation, the professional Engineer is a necessary part of our cities.

The question may be asked, "Why is the professional engineer necessary?" Among the many different cities and communities there are internal complex problems involving planning, zoning, development, constructions, and local improvements, all of which need to be coordinated and projected in order to have a systematic growth. Larger cities, of course, have the profesional people available to handle thee problems.

Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON D.C. The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State.

It seems worthwhile to call to your attention the fact that the name of the capital of China is Peking, not Peiping, as the Department of State persists in calling it. Geography must be difficult enough for children to learn these days, without having them confused by our own State Department. The rest of the world must believe from this persistent error that either the Department of State has not kept up with the history of the last 20 years, or that you are deliberately using this as a means of petty irritation of the Communist countries.

S. L.
Berkeley, Cal.

Dear Mrs. L.:

Thank you for your letter concerning the use of "Peiping" or "Peking" for the city in Communist China. Both "Peking" and "Peiping" are used interchangeably by the Department. For instance, the Department of State Bulletin of February 28, 1966, uses the work "Peking".

I am writing regarding an incident which occurred when we went thru customers in Bangkok. My wife and I and two British gentlemen debarked from our plane and they went through customs without opening a bag. We were compelled to open all our luggage which was thoroughly searched and even my wife's pocketbook and my wallet were also examined. To my query as to what they were looking for, the only answer I received was "sorry, this is my duty."

I feel in view of the fact that we are pouring millions into the Thai government to bolster their economy, the least they could do was to treat us like civilized persons and not suspected smugglers.

Dr. N. F.
New York, N. Y.

Dear Dr. F.:

We have no doubt that the pleasure of international travel would be increased immeasurably if somehow all customs and travel restrictions and regulations could be dispensed with, but unfortunately under present conditions this just is not possible. Thailand, one of our staunchest allies and friends is considered to have relatively liberal policies in this regard. You may have noted, for example, that in contrast to some other places in the Far East, American tourists staying less than fifteen days are allowed to come into Thailand without any visas.

The Thai are faced with the problem of a sizeable volume of rare gems, narcotics, gold and other high value items being brought illegally into the country and have had to take strict measures against this. As a sovereign people, they have the right, just as we have, to determine what customs procedures are appropriate.

We have no way of knowing about the status of the two British gentlemen who you said were not subject to these procedures. But since Bangkok is the center of much activity involving a number of international organizations and and agencies, they might have been travelling under diplomatic or special passports and hence not have been subject to ordinary requirements.

In any event, we hope you had an enjoyable visit to Thailand and saw many of the sights for which the country is so justly famous.

Do you have an inquiry?

Waco Vote Boosts Cen-Tex . . . .

Waco voters sent that Cen-Tex city on the move with a 2-1 vote for $23 millions in bonds for school, water and general purpose improvements.

Last month, Bell Countians voted 4-1 for a $1 million bond program for a widened US 190 which enabled use of another $15 of state highway funds.

Thus, public votes for major improvements have gained popularity in Central Texas. It is well remembered that Cameron endorsed its urban renewal planning proposal 3-1, and that Rockdale now is considering such an effort (See editorial, this page.)

It may be fair to say that Cameron's success in so many basic improvement areas in the past few years has sparked even these larger towns. Even now a $1 million hospital is in the works here while Cameron's proposal for downtown urban renewal planning money is awaiting approval in Washington, probably after the new fiscal year, by HUD authorities.

And the City is proposing a major 90-block paving program, by assessment, in residential and throughway streets.

Like most things, this Cen - Tex progress in cyclic, the result of so many changes in agriculture and the basic interests of people, moved to town. Ten years ago, such efforts would have been rejected.

Congratulations to Waco for its unity and foresight right to the voter-man-on-the-street.

It is further incentive to all Cen-Tex towns, Cameron among 'em, to gap the lag of Central Texas community development in such $23-million strides, which scaled down, Cameron and other Cen-Tex towns also take.

Show Us The Way, Teens

Rockdale Rotarians heard about the Rockdale Teen Club Tuesday and were impressed by what they heard.

The Teen Club is a going concern and the youngsters deserve a lot of credit for what they are doing, under the supervision of a small number of adults. What the group needs is the moral support of all adults. With this, they can take care of themselves.

Sooner or later Rockdale will provide facilities for a Teen Club, just as sooner or later Rockdale will face other facts of life. The Teen-agers, themselves, may have to push us into this facing up, however.

For a start this newspaper would suggest an Urban Renewal project that would tear out the entire half block of Cameron Avenue between Main street and Burleson street facing south. This would include the city hall.

In this half block area Rockdale could build a new city hall, a new civic center (which could be used by the Teen Club, too), and parking facilities for downtown shoppers.

This is not a new idea but it has never reached further than conversations between two or three people. But other towns are doing these things and there is no reason why Rockdale shouldn't.

This is a sound idea that would fill a great need in Rockdale. Where is there a group or an organization willing to take the ball and carry it?

Where?

Texans May Pay City Sales Tax

AUSTIN

By Vern Sanford

Texans may be a lot closer than they think to paying city sales taxes. But, in any event, they will have the final say at the local level.

A bill to permit authorization of a one-percent sales and use tax by cities, where voters approve, received a Senate Committee endorsement. It didn't find such a warm welcome in a House Committee.

Floor consideration is likely in both houses within a short time, say legislative leaders.

Texas AFL-CIO headed the opposition in committee hearings, while Texas Municipal League paraded mayor after mayor to testify that the property tax -- standby revenue source of municipalities -- is overworked. Texas State Association of Fire-fighters and Texas Municipal Police Association spokesmen, pushing for better fire-police pay and benefits, supported the mayors.

Here is what will happen if this bill is passed:

—City councils can call elections on whether the levy is to be authorized -- or wait to be petitioned for an election.

—If local voters say "no", there will be no local sales tax for at least two years in that community.

—If they approve, an extra one percent will be added to the two per cent state sales tax on covered items (but not automobiles) in the city. State comptroller will collect total three percent tax, turning a third over to the city hall.

—If citizens get to feeling overtaxed, they can get up a petition and call another election to throw out local sales taxation.

MONEY BILLS PASS, FAIL — Gov. John Connally's emergency appropriations request, which included $5,500,000 for the state's exhibit at San Antonio's Hemis-Fair '68, won final passage and was signed into law after weathering a Senate filibuster.

A few days later, the House refused 116 to 29 to suspend its rules to permit consideration of the Senate's $15,000,000 interim pay raise bill for state employees. However, House Speaker Ben Barnes promised to encourage an interim raise after the general budget is approved.

INDUSTRIAL BONDS -- Texas is losing ground in the industrial-expansion race among the states. So say Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake and Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin. And to get into the ball game, the state needs a new program for statewide industrial financing.

Thus the two have introduced bills in their respective chambers calling for a Constitutional Amendment to authorize a municipal revenue bond program, wherein cities can issue bonds to build facilities for luring new industry. Bonds would be retired by lease revenue paid to the cities.

"Texas is in a favorable competitive position in regard to raw materials, transportation, labor, industrial sites, recreational facilities and all the other industrial location factors which are considered by industry as vital to industrial development, except an industrial financing program," Clayton said, in urging passage of his bill.

WATER BILLS -- Public notice by publication of new or amended rulings of the Texas Water Rights Commission would be eliminated by a bill introduced in the House by Rep. Menton J. Murray of Harlingen. Bill would dissolve the three water divisions in the state.

Another bill by Murray would cut from four to two the number of publications required on an application for appropriation of water.

DRIVERS BILLS -- Mdernization of Texas' license plates and drivers' licenses would be accomplished by a pair of bills introduced in the House by Reps. Milton Schiller of Cameron and Dick Cory of Victoria.

Cory's bill would provide for a color photograph of the licensee on the driver's license. Persons under 21 years of age would be issued different-colored licenses. Proof of birth date and fingerprints would be required on the applications.

A bill by Schiller calls for reflectorized license plates. Motorists would pay the added 30 cents cost per plate.

COMMUNITY CENTERS -- Three bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives to establish community mental health-mental retardation centers and implement the recommendations of the Department of MHMR.

Speaker Barnes sent to the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments the resolution to change the Constitution in order to create the centers. Bill to permit the state to help finance them and a bill to aid in setting them up were sent to the Committee on MHMR.

GUADALUPE PARK BILL -- Senate approved 30-1 bill to insure creation of $13,500,000 Guadalupe Mountains National Park in Culberson and Hudspeth Counties.

House Parks and Wildlife Committee already had cleared the bill for House floor debate. Sen. Joe Christi of El Paso and Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine are sponsors.

Measure conveys to the federal government all mineral rights in the 71,000-acre area including Guadalupe Peak. Amendments would provide for reclaiming minerals if the area is dropped as a national park and the sharing of royalties if the federal government develops the natural resources.

BLUE LAW PROPOSED -- A new twist to the old Sunday "blue laws" is proposed in a bill by Rep. Billy Williamson of Tyler. It would levy an occupation tax on persons selling or renting personal property on Sunday.

Actually, the tax would be so rough as to prohibit Sunday sales. It would be at the rate of 10 percent of the receipts from the sale or rental, with some deductions provided. Anyone violating the measure would be fined not less than $25 nor more than $500 for each violation.

BANK CHECK EXPANDED -- Texas Banking Department announced plans to expand routine examination procedures to include direct verification of customers' deposit and loan balances in state-chartered banks.

Examiners would mail verification forms to bank customers whose accounts are selected on a random sampling basis. Customers would be asked to verify deposit or loan balance indicated.

OIL ALLOWABLE -- State Railroad Commission cut the oil allowable to 35.7 percent of potential for March.

Cut was almost a full percentage point from the 36.5 percent in February and nearly two percent below the 37.5 percent factor for January.

Producers can draw 3,147,541 barrels of oil a day next month, or 45,692 barrels daily below this month.

A reduction from February to March is the usual practice. March allowable this year is higher than the 33.2 percent of March, 1966.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Old Philosopher Says Maybe China Red Guards Flock To Town To Keep From Plowing

Dear editar:

According to a copy of a newspaper which I found on my front porch -- don't know how it got there but it's like a government check that turns up unexpectedly in your mail box, don't ask questions, cash it -- a China watcher has explained that the reason millions of young Chinese youths known as the Red Guards are flocking to the cities of China to riot is that they have been stirred to revolutionary fervor by master propagandists.

This may be true, but judging by how hard it is to keep a young man on a farm in the United States, despite all the modern tractors, three-point hook-ups for equipment, mechanical harvesting machinery, etc., there may be another explanation.

It shouldn't take much of a propagandist to get a young man in China to unhook himself from the plow he's been pulling and head for the bright lights. After you've harvested rice all week with a hand scythe and threshed it with a stick and hauled it on your back to the government warehouse, any excuse to get to town is welcome.

Of course what they do when they get there is another matter, and is something the China watchers are having trouble figuring out.

Speaking of China watchers, I may take up the job myself, which I figure I can do from this Johnson grass farm as well as from any place. Any time one China watcher assures you Mao is losing, and another assures you he's winning, I figure one man's report is about as sound as another's, and I'd like to get on that payroll.

Watching China from the outside is about like having a Frenchman who doesn't speak English and has never seen a game standing outside a football stadium trying to tell you what's going on inside just by the sound of the noise. Watching it from the inside is probably worse.

What China ought to do is rebuild the Chinese wall, but this time get it a lot higher.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Dear Editor (Frank),

Just re-read the front page article on the loan for the fifty low-rent homes.

Maybe I'm overlooking something, but when I divide 50 units into $753,552, I get $15,071.04.

To me, a $15,000 home doesn't seem like a low rent house.

Maybe there are others like myself who would like to have this explained. Could you elaborate a little?

Drilling Crews 'Fishing' At Shell Wildcat

The Shell Oil Company No. 2 Adoue Estate was at 14,622 feet on Monday with drilling crews still fishing for stuck drill pipe which has kept the deep Smackover wildcat shut down for almost a week.

Drill pipe became stuck on Wednesday of last week. Crews later on Friday backed off to 14,259 feet in an attempt to get it loose, but were still fishing at last report early this week.

Shell's No. 2 Adoue, located in east Milam County about four miles southwest of Gause, has encountered very little trouble since it was spudded on October 26th of last year. A fishing job when drill bit was lost in the hole at 6,967 feet was the only other serious trouble that has delayed drilling for a few days.

The wildcat is permitted to 16,000 feet or the Smackover. There is speculation among geologists and oilmen that it may be near its objective.

OUTDOOR TIPS

Baits that produce results on the big lakes are also fish-getters in the ponds and canals. And the method of fishing is the same.

Ponds have flats, shallows and deep holes just like the big lakes.

Most of the man-made stock ponds are dug in such a manner that the deep troughs are close to and parallel to the bank.

Schiller Poses Bills On Auto Tags, Sanitation

Rep. Milton Schiller of Cameron has introduced bills which would require reflective license plates on all vehicles and would enforce proper standards of sanitation and health on transportation lines operating in Texas.

The bill on license plates includes a provision for a 30 cent charge to cover additional cost of production. The bill has the backing of the Safety Council and the Farm Bureau.

The sanitation and health legislation provides that "all persons, firms or corporations managing or operating bus lines, airlines, or railroad lines which are known as common carriers within the State of Texas, or any person, firm or corporation operating any coastwise vessel along the shores of the State of Texas shall maintain sanitary conditions in all of their equipment and at all terminals or docking points."

The Department of Health would have the authority to set standards of sanitation and health protection for patrons and employees of the carriers.

The bill, which carries a fine of $20 to $200 for each day the violation continues, was referred to the House Committee on Motor Traffic.

Cold Weather Brings On Home Moisture Problems

COLLEGE STATION

Cold weather brings on special problems with air moisture in homes. The ideal of 50 to 55 percent relative humidity is often hard to achieve, points out W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer, Texas A&M University.

If the air in the home is too moist, it can cause window sweating, mildew, and undesirable odors. Allen offers these suggestions as aids to solving the problem.

If the house has a crawl space with no basement, use a thin polyethylene sheet plastic to cover the ground under the house. Or, excessive moisture can be helped by an exhaust fan in the kitchen, bathroom, or laundry area. These areas contribute most toward raising the relative humidity. Operation of the fan need not be continuous, but only when these areas are in use. A dehumidifier will provide positive moisture removal when other measures have failed.

Many of the condensation or sweating conditions on walls and windows in residences may require structural changes to completely remedy the problem, says the engineer.

For the house with low humidity or dry air problems, Allen suggests such remedies as: less frequent operation of ventilation fans or even simply boiling water on the range to add moisture. Low humidity means the room temperature must be kept higher for good body comfort. Raising the relative humidity can lower heating costs. Respiratory health problems may also be aggravated by too dry air. A humidifier will also add moisture to the air. Humidifier units are available in a range of sizes and types.

Austin Will Host Longhorn Jazz Fete

AUSTIN

On April 29-29-30, Texas will again play host to the world's great names in jazz as these stars gather for the second annual Longhorn Jazz Festival at Austin.

Produced by George Wein, Newport's famed empressario of jazz and folk music, and directed by Austin broadcaster Rod Kennedy, last year's festival attracted over 12,000 jazz fans to the Texas Capital City, and the 1967 festival is expected to double the crowds.

Held in Austin Braves' Disch Field, the annual festival of more than 50 jazz stars has eliminated the threat of rain for the 1967 schedule of five events by having the three-million dollar Austin Municipal Auditorium on standby.

Disch Field is set up for the jazz festival by adding seats on the field to bring seating up to 10,050. The auditorium, which is right across the street from the ball park, will be set up to hold 6,000 in reserved sections in case of rain.

The 1967 festival will present evening concerts at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29, and at 6 p.m. Sunday, April 30. Workshop sessions featuring many famous jazz artists at reduced prices will be featured at 2 p.m.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

Control Of Weeds To Be Discussed

Dr. Rupert D. Palmer, chemical weed control specialist at A&M, will meet with Milam County farmers, dealers and applicators, Friday, February 24, at 2:30 p.m. in the Cameron Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Those interested in learning more about chemical weed control are urged to attend the meeting. Dr. Palmer has had 12 years experience with chemical weed control work in the field in Mississippi and is an authority on the subject.

Weeds cost farmers billions of dollars each year. Research scientists believe the cost can be cut and are working toward this goal. Science has brought farmers sophisticated mechanical weed control methods. Millions of acres of weeds are now controlled with chemicals.

Much remains to be done, however, in improving and perfecting present methods of weed control, and in combining various approaches for coordinated control programs. Scientists are working now to develop more chemicals that are selective for specific weeds in specific crops.

WATER FOR DAIRY COWS

Research with dairy cows has shown that four to five pounds of water are required for each pound of milk produced. Water consumption affects output of high producers more than that of the low ones. Cows producing 40 to 60 pounds of milk per day gave six to eleven percent more milk when free access to water was provided.

With free access to water, cows drink about 10 times within each 24-hour period, with about one-third of the water being consumed during the night.

Cows will not drink the required amount of water if the water is too cold. Where a watering trough is used, an automatic water heater to prevent the water from freezing is a good investment.

In caring for dairy as well as beef cows it is the "personal touch" that tips the scales in the owner's favor.

Buy Now, Pay Later Shopping Dangerous Home Expert Warns

"It is almost impossible to live in our present day society without being lured into spending beyond our means," says Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension specialist in home management, Texas A&M University.

Yesterday's luxuries become today's necessities. Everywhere people are on the move. And with each move there is usually an attempt to live just a little bit better than before. "Buy Now and Pay Later" has become a national slogan.

No matter how much you earn it is quite likely that your family cannot have everything it wants. In order to get the greatest satisfaction from the money you do have, it is necessary to spend wisely and curtail impulse buying.

Many families refuse to budget their incomes. They feel budgets are too strict, and are not realistic. "Budgets just won't work." They go along from day to day letting commercial companies manage their money by collecting installments on everything in the house and "forcing" them to pay for items they would not otherwise have. This is the only way they can "save" they say. When emergencies come along, they borrow more and are constantly on a financial merry-go-round that results in the perplexing situation of the man who said, "I've never had it so good, why am I so broke?"

If you would like to get off the merry-go-round, if you would like to be master of your own pocketbook, if you would like to show some financial progress and develop a reasonable amount of financial security, sit down with your family and do some real thinking about your situation.

(1) What do you want your money to do? Both on a short time basis and several years hence.

(2) Figure out where you stand right now.

(3) Make a plan to accomplish your goals. If this is to get out of debt you must do some real planning and stick to it until you accomplish your goal. You have to make your own plan as nobody is in this same boat with your family. They have their own problems.

(4) Try out your plan and keep a record of your spending.

(5) Periodically check up to see how the plan is working. This is the critical point where most people give up. Instead of tossing it out the window, get your pencil and eraser and start making adjustments -- be flexible rather than foolish.

Knowing what you own and what you owe can be a big help in making decisions about the plan and the use of credit. With many families the decision to stop credit buying for a while is the wisest one; for others credit can be a wise decision.

Texas Voters Favor Sunday Closing For Most Retailers

An overwhelming majority of Texas voters would favor a state law prohibiting sale on Sunday of most types of general merchandise, a statewide public opinion survey conducted for the Texas Retail Federation shows.

The survey, conducted by the Dallas research firm of Louis, Bowles and Grace, Inc., shows public opinion inclined to permit Sunday sale only of such essential items as medicines, foods, and motor fuel.

About three of every four voters turned thumbs down on the idea of department stores and variety stores, as such, opening for business on Sunday. Results showed 73 percent definitely against Sunday opening of department stores and 75 percent definitely against Sunday opening of variety stores.

A scientific cross section of the Texas electorate was interviewed. Sampled voters were given an opportunity to express their opinions with respect to Sunday sale of thirteen different types of products. They were asked in each case, "Do you feel state law should or should not allow selling on Sunday of (the particular type of product)?"

Majorities of from 61 to 93 percent said they would allow Sunday sale of food and groceries, gasoline and motor oil, and medicines and drugs. But, with respect to all other types of merchandise tested in the survey, large majorities voted against allowing sale on Sunday.

The statewide results, summarized below, show percentages voting not allow selling on Sunday of these items: Clothing (76 pct.), home appliances (79 pct.), home furnishings (79 pct.), furniture (80 pct.), kitchenware and utensils (78 pct.), TV and radio sets (79 pct.) jewelry (80 pct.), hardware (74 pct.), automobiles (75 pct.), and garden and nursery products (65 pct).

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Last night a miracle occurred. It happened on the night after Johnny bought a new guitar and all of us joined in a family hootenanny.

When he came to live with us over a year ago, Sam didn't even talk. Raised in a sub-standard home, he was a mighty unhappy little boy with problems galore.

He didn't like us at first—he wasn't glad to be with us. But, gradually, as the months wore on, he began to trust us and believe in our love.

That night as the family sang together—Sam suddenly began to sing with us. The miracle had occurred. He was now one of the family.

You see, the Church had taught us that the love of God accepts us completely and unconditionally. We had learned that we could love and accept Sam in the same way. In becoming a part of God's family, we had discovered how to create a new family of our own.

IRS Questions

Q - I'm over 65 and I've heard that starting this year my medical expenses will not be fully deductible. Does that affect my 1966 return?

A - No, it does not. Allowable medical expenses for taxpayers 65 and over will be fully deductible on 1966 returnr. The change will come next year when you file a return on 1967 income. Then the medical expenses of older taxpayers will be treated the same as those of taxpayers under 65.

Q - My wife is visiting her mother for a few weeks. Can I fill our return without her signature as most of our income is from my salary?

A - No, your wife's signature is required as well as yours on a joint return. Failure to have her sign the return will hold up processing and any refund due.

Q - Where should I list the alimony I receive?

A - Use line 7 on page 2 of Form 1040. Prizes and awards, state tax refunds and other miscellaneous items should be entered here.

Q - My wife and I are filing a joint return and the Social Security withheld from both our salaries exceeds the maximum. Can we take a credit for this?

A - The maximum applies to the Social Security tax withheld from each taxpayer. Only the amounts in excess of $277.20 withheld from your salary, or the excess of $277.20 withheld from your wife's may be claimed as a credit against income tax liability.

Q - I just completed my return and sent it in. What records should I keep in case I'm audited?

A - Keep whatever you need to substantiate the income and deductions on your return. Cancelled checks, paid bills, Forms W-2 and 1099, bank books and similar records will be helpful.

Q - My salary was about $6,000 last year and my wife earned about $1,500 doing part-time office work. Which return would be the best for us to file--a joint return or separate returns?

A - Based on income alone, your question is impossible to answer. The deductible expenses each of you have are the determining factors.

Generally, joint returns are more advantageous for married couples. Compute your tax both ways and then file the return that results in the lower tax.

Q - Can I use my 1966 income as the basis for a declaration of estimated tax?

A - Yes, this is one of the methods that may be used in filing a declaration of estimated tax. You may also use your 1966 tax or an actual estimate of 1967 income as the basis for filing estimated tax declarations.

Q - How do I figure my state gas tax deduction?

A - Page 9 of the 1040 instruction booklet contains a table that may be used to figure this deduction.

Q - I had a capital loss in 1966. Can I carry it over to next year if I don't use all of it this year?

A - Yes. Capital losses can be carried over indefinitely until they are absorbed. The loss when carried over retains its original character so that if it was a long term loss it remains a long term loss while a short term loss remains a short term loss.

Q - I have GI insurance. Are the yearly dividends taxable?

A - No, veterans insurance dividends are not taxable.

Q - Do I have to report the alimony I receive from my ex-husband?

A - Yes, alimony is taxable income to the recipient. Child support payments, however, are not taxable.

Q - I made several contributions to local candidates in last November's elections. Are they deductible if I itemize?

A - No. The law does not permit deductions for contributions to political campaigns.

Cattlemen To Hear Poage At TSCRA Meeting

Congressman W. R. Poage, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, will bring cattlemen up-to-date on agricultural legislation in one of the featured addresses at the 90th Annual Convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Houston, March 12-15.

Congressman Poage is scheduled to speak Tuesday morning, March 14. Headquarters for the convention will be the Shamrock Hilton Hotel and registration will begin at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 12, according to Don C. King of Fort Worth, TSCRA secretary-general manager.

King said John A. Schnittker, under secretary of agriculture, is also slated to speak the same morning, and that the two addresses will give cattlemen a comprehensive picture of legislative developments which will affect them in the months to come.

A number of other agricultural authorities are scheduled to address cattlemen during the convention. The first general session will be a board of directors' meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, March 13, with Ben H. Carpenter of Dallas, TSCRA president, presiding. The board meeting and convention sessions are open to the public.

Parkhouse Bill Seeks Change In State's 1925 Abortion Law

AUSTIN

A bill which would permit abortions under certain specified conditions was introduced today in the Texas Senate. Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, who introduced the legislation, stated that "the proposed legislation contains strict limitations which will permit a therapeutic abortion only after specific requirements are satisfied by the patient seeking such an operation."

Under current law, written in 1925, an abortion is legal only if it is necessary to save the mother's life.

"It is time," Parkhouse said, "that we consider the health of the mother and not life alone, and recognize the right of an infant to be born in good health, as well as provide relief to unfortunate victims of rape or incest."

Under the proposed legislation, an abortion would be permitted under the following circumstances:

1) Where there is a condition which endangers the life of the mother and the pregnancy must be terminated in order to preserve her life.

2) Where the woman has become pregnant as a result of forcible rape or incest.

3) Where there is a substantial risk that the continuance of the pregnancy would gravely impair the physical or mental health of the mother, or

4) Where there is a substantial risk that the child will be born with a grave physical or mental defect.

The bill introduced by Parkhouse also lists a number of general requirements that must be met in all cases in which an abortion is sought. These include the written consent to the operation by the patient or, if she is a minor, consent by her guardian or custodial parent. A physician licensed by the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners must perform the operation in a hospital approved by the Texas State Department of Health.

A hospital abortion committee is called for in the bill, and the abortion must be approved by a majority of the five physicians on the committee. The committee members must all be members of the hospital staff. Two physicians must submit a written request to the committee, stating the reasons which necessitate the abortion. One of the physicians must be a specialist in the field of the condition stated as medical reason for the abortion, but neither of the physicians may be on the hospital committee.

Humble Wins Time Sponsored Contest

Yoe High School has announced that Monty Humble has been named the local winner in Time's 31st annual Current Affairs Contest with a score of 55. Other high-scoring local students include: Barbara Jo Hickman, Janet Marek, and Bill Perrin.

Time's Current Affairs Test, given this year to more than 3 million college and high school students in the U. S. and Canada, consists of 100 questions on national and foreign affairs. Also included are such categories as business, sports, entertainment, science, religion, literature and the arts.

The test, created for the Time Education Program -- an exclusive classroom service of Time magazine -- has been taken by nearly 10,000,000 students since its inception 31 years ago.

Top scorers receive a certificate from James R. Shepley, publisher of Time.
